

Dostoevskian Soccer Prototype Constitution

1 — I read somewhere something to the effect that competitive sports and their spectacle can satisfy nations' ambition for war, aggression and fascism.

2 — We can not escape the identity that is entangled with the language we speak and national culture. This identity is inevitable, but undermining the significance of geographical borders that replicate linguistic borders requires signification of the second-layer (international) identity. One supports Real Madrid or Barcelona or Man United or Arsenal or Lakers.

3 — This is the primordial right of residents of any geographical location: residents NOT military forces must be the entity to decide to which country they belong in geographical dispute. For example Kashmir or West Bank or ... Political borders are mostly linguistic then cultural-national borders.

4 — But As long as there is military invasion and geographical ambitions, it is much more meaningful and peaceful for one's identity to be about soccer. As a fan, as a servant and employee, as part of spectacles. Technology in the service of soccer and its spectacle.

5 — Why not? Human life-world is a joke. Do we know why we keep going on procreation? For economic growth? Non-sense. Human life-world appears utterly meaningless. As human we do not know what we are supposed to do. Or wow we must live. Why not make everything about soccer and other games?

Khayyam: We are the plaything of the universe and the universe loves to play.

6 — Soccer is the most beautiful game and a metaphor for all beautiful games. One enjoys watching soccer is to feel the tumultuous emotions of the team one supports or the player one admires, to be part of a collective spirit.

7 — So much more enjoyable than watching soccer is playing soccer. One must never pass the chance to play. Technology and schools must be about playing soccer etc.

8 — As a single race we must consider dramatic reduction of population. The earth cannot take these many people. Why? We don't know what we are doing in this universe yet we procreate. At least let people who are rich do.

9 — Imagine a soccer dominated society and life-world. No damn military and stupid land disputes. Sustainable Economy. Radical reconciliation with nature. Adopting to natural structures. Singular global acutely politically concentrated free market least exploitative and disruptive to nature beyond that only soccer-related. — As an emissary from political unconscious, I speak directly to political power eye-to-eye universally: legalize assisted suicide (I so much rather be dead than be dependent on others) AND self-destruction via artificial narcotics AND consumption of natural narcotics as long as at any case no harm is inflicted on other people.

When the servants came in to him [Father Zosima's brother] he would say continually, "Dear, kind people, why are you doing so much for me, do I deserve to be waited on? If it were God's will for me to live, I would wait on you, for all men should wait on one another." — Dostoevsky, The Brothers Karamazov

My humble theory of ideal society: based on Bertrand Russell's In Praise of Idleness, Father Zosima's brother's attitude, soccer-dominated society, sports, games, laughter, health, sex, intoxication, food, dance, art, learning, science, music, films, books, not worrying about children, furniture, luxury, future, past, land, identity, history, immigration, technology, capital, space, tourism, consumption, reputation, prestige, ... ,
